

FOR PUPILS' SAKE PENSION TEACHERS

AMENDMENT NO. 2 PROVIDES
MEANS OF IMPROVING QUAL-ITY OF TEACHING.

In the last 12 years the plan of pensioning aged and disabled employees has been adopted by the largest and best-paying railroads in the country. The railroads did not take this step as a matter of philanthropy; they took it rather in the interests of fairness, of mutual good feeling and of the "good of the service."

Among the railroads and big industrial corporations which have adopted pension plans in the period named were the Union Pacific and Southern Pacific, where the system was introduced by the late E. H. Harriman; the Santa Fe, the Chicago & North-western, the Pennsylvania, the Standard Oil Co. and the subsidiary companies of the United States Steel Corporation.

Whatever is thought of the general policies of some of the concerns named, no one will question that they know how to get the best work out of their employees, and their adoption of the pension plan proves that they recognize its value.

They know that with a pension system in force, a man who has worked for them long enough to be valuable will hesitate about accepting offers from other concerns, even at considerably higher pay, which offer him no security in age and infirmity.

They know that, with the haunting fear of poverty removed, men will do better work and make dividends for the company. They know the value of the loyalty and good will of their employees, not merely in working hours, but all the time, and they have found that the pension system has done more than any other one thing to create the spirit they desire to foster.

No benefaction in years has been so hailed as the Carnegie Foundation for pensions for retired college professors. Its benefits have been recognized by numerous colleges, which have altered their charters materially to place themselves in reach of the benefits of the foundation.

Every argument which applies in favor of pensions for railroad and corporation employees, or college professors, applies with equal force in the case of public school teachers. Not as a charity or concession to them, but for the good of the schools and of the children educated in them, the voters of Missouri are asked to scratch "No" and vote "Yes" on Amendment No. 2.

The proposed pension arrangement will apply, as provided in the amendment, to St. Louis, Kansas City and St. Joseph only. The rest of the state will not have to provide any part of these funds, which will be raised entirely from local sources. The success of the plan in the three cities, it is believed, will lead to its adoption in other parts of the state.

The states in which such pension provisions exist are Massachusetts, Illinois, Connecticut, Ohio, California, Michigan, Utah, Indiana, Virginia, New Jersey and Maryland.

SOLDIERS OF PEACE

TEACHERS' PENSION AMENDMENT
IS A MOVE TOWARD RECOGNIZING THEM.

VOTERS HELP IS NEEDED

Remainder of State Must Approve
Plan in Behalf of Instructors of Three Cities, but Will Not Pay the Bills.

A wealthy man in the early days of the Republic died leaving a large legacy to his native city, Boston. He stipulated that the amount should not become available for a long term of years, and that it should then be spent "to defend the city of Boston against its enemies."

When the time came to apply the amount, which had greatly increased, to its purpose, the harbor of Boston was so well fortified that the city seemed to be in no danger from any attack of hostile warships. To spend more on fortifications would be waste.

Wise in their generation, the trustees of the fund decided that the greatest enemy of Boston, or of any other city of their time, was ignorance, and that they would be best fulfilling their trust by giving the money to education. Courts upheld this view, and the money was added to the city's school fund.

The soldier who is wounded or injured receives a pension. The teacher whose body or mind gives way under the hard task of instruction has no such last resource.

It is to provide for the comfort and the self-respect of those who give their lives to this work that Amendment No. 2 will be submitted to the voters of Missouri at the coming election. It gives the legislature the right to pass a law which will, in turn, authorize the boards of education of St. Louis, Kansas City and St. Joseph to provide pension funds. These are to be from local sources wholly, and the rest of the state will not in any manner have to contribute.

SCHOOL OF THE PEOPLE

STATE UNIVERSITY IS THE CRADLE OF OPPORTUNITY.

If Amendment Number Eleven Passes
Tuition in All Departments Will Be Absolutely Free.

The University of Missouri is truly "The School of the People." For many years tuition has been free, and it was only last year that, because of a shortage of funds, it became temporarily necessary to charge a small fee in some departments. If Constitutional Amendment No. 11, to be voted upon November 8th, is adopted, it will be possible to return to an absolutely free tuition in every department.

Within the past few years hundreds of students have been graduated from the University who have earned every dollar of their expenses during the sessions. Among scores of instances may be cited that of a lawyer in New York City, who less than ten years ago because of lack of money was compelled in order to reach the University to walk hundreds of miles from his home in a South Missouri community to Columbia. Through the opportunities open to him on his arrival he was able to earn his way through the University and have money in his pocket when he left. Numerous cases, equally striking, demonstrate that no Missourian need go without a university education.

The institution which offers such advantages to the people of Missouri must have a permanent and separate means of support if it is to maintain its present standard. Rapidly increasing enrollment requires corresponding increased equipment and number of professors. The University today depends entirely upon such uncertain and varying appropriations as the legislature may find possible to make. The Universities of many progressive western states receive a definite and certain portion of the State's revenue. Missouri should fare likewise.

Amendment No. 11, the last amendment on the ballot to be voted upon Nov. 8th, by providing an income of three-tenths of a mill per dollar of assessed valuation of property within the state, guarantees free tuition and a continuance of the benefits of University Education to the people of the state.

WESTERN INSTITUTIONS PRAISED

Vice-President Sherman Warm in Commendation of Our Universities.

Vice-President Sherman, speaking at Carverville, in Jasper county, on August 30, said:

"Here in this great western country you have done particularly well in supporting great state institutions of learning."

Missouri University has made a splendid record among the institutions of the nation. If its record is to be maintained, the University must be adequately supported. Michigan, Wisconsin, Minnesota, Colorado and Nebraska provide permanent, separate support for their universities, ranging from three cents per hundred dollars assessed valuation in Wisconsin, to ten cents in Nebraska. Missouri University deserves the adoption of Constitutional Amendment No. 11, to be voted on in November. It guarantees a permanent, separate income of three-tenths of a mill per dollar of assessed valuation to the University, which on the average basis of Missouri assessment means only one cent per hundred dollars annual value.

With both the Democratic and Republican parties favoring the plan in their platforms, the amendment is certain to receive heavy and hearty support throughout the state.

Important Notice.
Every voter at the election of November 8, should vote upon the Constitutional Amendment No. 11, to be voted on in November. To do so he must be supplied with the separate ballot which contains them. The Missouri election law has been changed and this year the names of the candidates are on a different ballot from the one which contains the amendments. Be sure to see that you have the amendment ballot.

Call for Ballot.
At the election on November 8 every voter should especially ask the judge or clerk for the ballot containing the amendments will not appear on the ballots containing the names of the candidates, but will be on a separate sheet. It is important to remember this fact.

CITY NEWSPAPERS INDORSE PENSION

URGE VOTERS TO ADOPT THE AMENDMENT AS RECOGNITION FOR SERVICES.

When all of the daily papers in a large city like St. Louis are unanimous in advocating a measure, it is pretty apt to be the best thing for the people. There is not a dissenting voice among the St. Louis papers in connection with the proposed constitutional amendment, to be submitted in November, authorizing the three large cities in Missouri to establish a pension for police officers injured or disabled on duty. In positive editorials the St. Louis papers urge the citizens of the state to vote for the amendment on the ground that the cities want the amendment for the protection of brave police officers. In urging this upon the people the papers are aware that the full expense of the proposed pension will rest upon the city adopting it, and that not one cent of expense will fall on the country voters.

Here is what the papers have to say:

"The pension system for men who serve the public is based on humanitarian principles. The amendment proposed is merely a grant from the state at large to the cities to establish the pension, and the amendment should receive no opposition from any source."—St. Louis Times, August 4, 1910.

"If there is in St. Louis any organized opposition to this amendment it has not been located."—St. Louis Republic, July 31, 1910.

"The proposed constitutional amendment granting power to cities of over 100,000 inhabitants to establish a pension system for disabled policemen is a meritorious measure and should receive the friendly consideration of the voters of Missouri."—St. Louis Globe-Democrat, August 2, 1910.

"The amendment should be embodied in the constitution so that the legislature may be empowered to act. A wise system of police pensions would be beneficial. It would raise the standard of service. Moreover, police officers after years of service, or after suffering disability in the service, should be provided for under the law."—St. Louis Post-Dispatch, August 2, 1910.

"The amendment to the constitution of Missouri providing for pensions for superannuated or disabled policemen should be adopted. Men who give their lives to the public service should have something to look forward to in their old age. Pension in some cases would remove the temptation to graft."—St. Louis Star-Chronicle, July 27, 1910.

Now, that is what the newspapers, who watch the conditions of the police department every day out of the year, have to say of the question. The newspapers, located in the midst of police work, are the best possible judges on the hazardous and trying duties of a policeman. These papers know to what elements the officers are subjected.

Knowing these facts the newspapers have joined in urging the adoption of the amendment. They do this, too, because they know the necessity for it, and not for any sentimental or selfish cause.

Amendment No. 1 on the short ballot is the one that will give the three cities the right to properly provide for the pension system. By voting "yes" on the amendment you vote to appreciate and reward the hardships endured by policemen.

PROTECTING THE POLICE.

When the newspapers and the police boards commend the pension system to the voters of the state, it is time for the citizens to take notice. Both the newspapers and the boards are anxious to increase the efficiency of the men. In each instance they are disinterested, in the sense that adoption of the system could not affect the newspaper or the board, but they are interested because they want the department brought up to its maximum strength.

Eastern cities have tried the pension plan and they have found it beneficial. The three cities of Missouri are just as eager to improve conditions as the more fortunate towns of the east. In the first amendment, to be submitted in November, the Missouri towns think they are only asking for what is right and humanitarian. Every Missourian who believes in rewarding soldiers wounded on the battlefield should support the plan to keep from going to the poor house those men who guard the cities just as the soldier fights for the nation.

THE GOLDEN RULE AND POLICE.

Both former Gov. Folk and Gov. Hadley have indorsed the constitutional amendment to be submitted in November giving the three cities power to establish a pension system for the disabled police, as the former and present chief executives of the state, both know what the pension means toward improving conditions.

Every person who believes in the golden rule can not resist the plea of the police officer and public-spirited men to vote for the amendment. Its adoption merely provides for the welfare of the officer while stricken as a result of exposure while protecting the public.

John A. Weiss, Montgomery City, Mo., says: "For some time I was afflicted with lumbago and could not stoop, straighten or turn over in bed. After sitting for any length of time my back became so lame that I had to have assistance in arising. I also had pains in my head and shoulders and was unable to obtain relief until I procured Doan's Kidney Pills at Crump & Kidwell's Drug Store. They cured me of the complaint and in return, I gladly recommend them" (Statement given in June 1906.)

On November 14, '08, Mr. Weiss said: "The cure effected by Doan's Kidney Pills two years ago has proven permanent. I cannot say too much in favor of this remedy."
